Naz in the News

September 24, 2007

Watch 13 WHAM News tonight at 6 p.m. for a story on the controversy surrounding the President of Iran speaking at Columbia University. Dr. Tim Kneeland and several students were interviewed about free speech on college campuses.

The Democrat and Chronicle featured Nazareth College's Northstar Project on the Speaking Out page of Sunday's newspaper.

Dr. Tim Kneeland and student Andrea Rosenberg both wrote pieces for the full-age feature that talks about the portable museum that Nazareth and MCC students created and are unveiling at this weekend's upcoming Frederick Douglass International Underground Railroad Conference in downtown Rochester.

The Democrat and Chronicle interviewed Nazareth's VP for Enrollment Management Tom DaRin in last Wednesday's edition for a story about the College Board and SATs.

DaRin was also interviewed for a Democrat and Chronicle article that ran last Monday titled "Colleges See Static Freshman Class Size."

13 WHAM News

visited Nazareth last week for a story on credit card debt and college students and interviewed Nazareth students and Director of Student Activities Jane Kelly.

The Nazareth College Arts Center

renovation project was one of three subjects of a front page (continued on 9A), September 16 Democrat and Chronicle article titled "City Arts Scene is Abuzz in Progress." The article includes a quote from President Daan Braveman and information on the Arts Center renovation and its impact on the College, greater Rochester community, and region.

Nazareth

College Arts Center subscription series was featured in the Sunday, September 16, Democrat and Chronicle, 2007-2008 Cultural Preview.

In the Preview there was coverage of all four Rochester Children's Theatre productions at the Arts Center, our season's dance performances comprised three quarters of the dance section, and the Arts Center presentation of Songs of the Spirit was one of the Jazz sections "Don't Miss" spotlights. Because of its association with "Across Borders Rochester", Nazareth College Arts Center was even mentioned in the Visual Arts section of the Cultural Preview.
